Additional requirements:

- 100 hours of Anatomy/Physiology training
- 100 hours of Bodywork training
- 50 hours of self-enquiry work such as Presence of Being, Hakomi, Pre-Natal Journey, Bio-energetics or actual experience in therapy
- Supplemental study in The Anatomy Coloring Book or The Anatomy of Movement may be used for up to 50 hours of the 100 hour Anatomy/Physiology requirement.
- The combined total of 250 hours land work may be reached with varying proportions of Anatomy, Bodywork and self-enquiry trainings.

Additional explanation....

- The pre-requisites for studying Healing Dance I are Basic Watsu, Watsu I, 20 Practice Sessions and the Watsu Supervision. When circumstances necessitate, the Watsu Supervision may be postponed until after Healing Dance I.
- This is the "surface" certification, in which neither of the two underwater trainings of Healing Dance are involved.
- It is recommended that students complete the 13 sessions between each course, but this must not be strictly followed. It is the final total that must be met: 30 sessions given (20 Practice Sessions and 10 Feeling Sessions) and 6 sessions received (at least 2 from a HD Practitioner). Sessions of Healing Dance received before beginning this training may be included.
- It should be possible to complete steps 1-10 within 2 to 2 1/2 years.
- Before certification students may of course use the techniques in sessions, but not say or advertise that they do sessions of Healing Dance. For instance, it would be quite okay to say, "I am studying Healing Dance." "I am on my way toward becoming a Practitioner of Healing Dance." "I use techniques of Healing Dance in my sessions."
- Practitioner status gives you a certificate, a free listing on the Healing Dance website, the right to use the Healing Dance logo, and to say and advertise that you practice Healing Dance. For instance, "I am a Healing Dance Practitioner." "I give sessions of Healing Dance."
- You may study Healing Dance wherever you wish, but to work as a Practitioner we ask you to follow the guidelines established in the country in which you live. At most, this means logging in a few extra hours of training and sessions should you move to a country with a more rigorous program than the one in which you qualified.
- When you qualify as a Healing Dance Practitioner it is permanent, but we strongly recommend that you audit further Healing Dance trainings to keep your skills fresh.
